TOMATOES SERVED MANY WAYS.

Tomato Spanish.—Boil six medium sized tomatoes five minutes, cut off top and scoop out seeds. Chop finely one bunch of celery, one green chili-pepper and one onion, fry in a little butter ten minutes, adding a little chopped cheese, salt and pepper. Cool. Fill the tomatoes with this mixture, put a tablespoon of mayonnaise on each. Chill and serve on lettuce leaves.

Tomato Omelet.—Take four ripe tomatoes, peel and chop fine. Beat a large tablespoon of flour to a smooth paste with a little milk. Add six well-beaten eggs, a little pepper and salt and the tomatoes. Fry or bake omelet in usual way, and fold it over if liked but do not turn it.

Tomato Butter.—Seven pounds of tomatoes, four pounds sugar, one-half pint of vinegar, cinnamon and ginger to taste. Peel tomatoes and cook till smooth. Then add sugar, vinegar and spices. Cook till thick as any marmalade.

Fried Tomatoes.—Slice half ripened tomatoes one-quarter inch thick, roll in flour and fry in hot butter. When enough are fried, mash a few pieces of the softer ones adding a little flour to thicken and use a little milk as for gravy, and pour over the tomatoes as a sauce. This is very nice for luncheon.

Baked Tomatoes.—Select four tomatoes, scoop out pulp, chop this finely, with a little grated cheese, onion, salt and pepper to taste. Add enough bread crumbs to take up moisture. Fill tomatoes with mixture, and bake. When taken from oven pour a tablespoon of cream over each tomato.

Cheese and Tomato Salad.—Arrange alternate layers of sliced tomatoes, lettuce and hard boiled eggs, spread about half an inch thick with grated cheese; chill and serve with oil salad dressing.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Rice.—Remove the stem ends, scoop out the inside, filling care not to break the skin, then fill with the following force meat: one cupful each of boiled rice and finely chopped bread, tablespoonful of minced onion, browned in two teaspoonfuls of butter, and a few sprays of parsley. Serve with pork chops.

A Woman's Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when this Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. KASLING, 981 East 24th St., Erie, Pa.

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters are received and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

Spanish Salad.—Select small, round tomatoes, cut into slices and arrange in a bowl with sliced onions, radishes and green peppers, from which the seed pods have been removed. Serve with olive oil.

Tomato Sauce.—Cook together one pint of fresh tomatoes and one cupful of water for ten minutes, strain, add three teaspoonfuls of butter and half a teaspoonful of salt. Dissolve a tablespoonful of cornstarch in two tablespoonfuls of cold water, add and simmer ten minutes. Serve with omelets.

Tomato Soup.—Stew and strain through colander, one quart of tomato pulp, add half teaspoonful of soda and half teaspoonful of salt; heat again and when ready to serve pour into it one quart of boiling new milk to which has been added large lump of butter, spoonful of sugar, and one tablespoonful of cornstarch.

Tomato Jelly.—Wash and put on to boil, ten tomatoes, one onion, ten cloves, three black peppers and a stick of mace. Cook twenty minutes, strain well. Soften a tablespoonful of gelatin in a cupful of cold water, which add to the tomatoes while hot. Turn into small molds and serve on lettuce leaves.

Green Tomato Sauce.—Remove the stems and cook green tomatoes until tender. Press through a sieve, season with cayenne pepper, ground cloves, allspice and nutmeg. Simmer until thick. If desired a little vinegar may be added to make more acid.

Green Tomato Pie.—Slice six large green tomatoes, mix with them a level cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, saltspoonful of salt, and one each of cinnamon and cloves. Bake with a cover. Sprinkle the top thickly with Parmesan cheese. Serve hot.

Stewed Tomatoes.—Place sound, ripe tomatoes in boiling water so the skins will come off easily. Peel and cut into slices; add two finely chopped onions, a tablespoonful of butter, pepper and salt to taste, one cupful of meat starch and one of steamed macaroni, cover closely and stew till done. Then pour into a vegetable dish, cover with a cream sauce and serve hot.

PUTTING UP TOMATOES.

Chili Sauce.—Twelve ripe tomatoes, four medium size onions, two green peppers; one cupful of cider vinegar, four tablespoonfuls of salt, two teaspoonfuls of allspice, two teaspoonfuls of cloves. Run all these through a food chopper, and boil all together until the ingredients are tender, but not "mushy." Seal in small bottles or jars while hot.

Tomato Catsup.—One bushel ripe tomatoes, one-half gallon cider vinegar, 12 medium size onions, one-half pint of salt; one-half teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, two ounces each of cloves and allspice, three tablespoonfuls of black pepper. Boil the tomatoes until soft, and rub through a colander; have fresh, good spices, ground, and add to the pulp and boil all together for two hours, stirring frequently to keep from scorching when it thickens. Strain through a sieve and bottle boiling hot.

Tomato Jelly.—Cut one peck of green tomatoes in pieces and boil until soft; strain, adding two cupfuls of sugar to one cupful of the juice, then boil for twenty minutes, adding one slice of lemon to each cup of juice.

Tomato Mustard.—One peck of green tomatoes, one-fourth peck of sliced onions, one pound ground mustard; vinegar sufficient. Slice the tomatoes thin, sprinkle with salt (a teaspoonful is enough, and let stand over night; in the morning drain and squeeze out the juice. Run onions and tomatoes through a food chopper, then put in the porcelain kettle with the mustard and vinegar and boil steadily until it is thick as catsup, then pack in jars and seal. One quart of vinegar is the usual amount used to a peck of tomatoes.

ALBANY.

The drama, which the young people gave in the Grange Hall, was enjoyed by a large crowd. The cast of characters were as follows:

Amanda Armstrong, Annie Cummings, Josiah Armstrong, Leon Kimball, Nellie Armstrong, Nina Dean, Laura Armstrong, Abbie Wardwell, Col. Barnaby Strutt, Ernest Paine, Mrs. Barnaby Strutt, Laura Cummings, Junior Strutt, Jennie Dean, Dick Randall, Herbert Bean, Jr., Squire Heretvert, Herman Cummings, Jonah Jones, Sherman Allen, Tom Busby, John Haselton, Alta Cummings was to have been Nellie Armstrong but was hardly strong enough after her illness so Miss Dean took her part. All took their parts well and much credit is due them. The proceeds will finish paying for the piano. The Grange very kindly gave us the use of their hall.

As our Circle usually helps pay for preaching besides keeping the church in repair it seemed quite an undertaking to pay for a piano, but like everything else, "what is worth having is worth working for." The Circle members worked hard for the sale which was held in the winter, besides serving suppers twice a month. Everyone has been interested and helped in some way. Many of Albany's former residents and friends have donated very generously and we feel very grateful to them, and

WEST PARIS

Mrs. Mary Pechever and daughter, Helen, of Lawrence, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Pechever's brother, Albert J. Rickard.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Johnson and niece, Ruth Wilkinson, are visiting relatives at Groveton, N. H., and attending the fair.

Era Ridlon, a veteran of the Civil War, and the oldest man in West Paris, died suddenly, Saturday, Mr. Ridlon was the son of Ezra and Rebecca (Hutchins) Ridlon and was born in Limington, July 21, 1827. Most of his life had been spent in Woodstock, and Paris. He married Eliza Thurston, who died about six years ago. Five children were born to them only two of whom are living, George W. Ridlon and Mrs. Nellie Moody. A grandson, Clarence L. Ridlon, with whom he lived, and three granddaughters, Mrs. Dora Jackson, Mrs. Della Penley and Mrs. Bertha Buck and three great-grandchildren, also survive. He was a devoted member of the Methodist church and was held in high esteem. Mr. Ridlon enlisted in Co. I, First Maine Infantry, but was discharged on account of disability. Later he enlisted in the Seventh Maine battery and served until the close of the war. Rev. L. W. Grundy spoke fitting words of comfort at the Methodist Episcopal chapel, Monday, and interment was in the family lot in West Paris cemetery. The bearers were Civil War comrades.

Mrs. Martha D. Knight of Boston is a guest of Mrs. C. H. Abbott at C. H. Lane's.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Whitten have as guests their son, Ray Whitten, wife and son, Melville, of Boston.

Mrs. Fannie Emmons has been spending several days at Groveton, N. H., with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Abbie Hayes, and the family of Loring Roberts.

Karl Hayes of Portland, who has been working in Boston since the close of his school year, is expected here soon to visit with old friends and spend a little time with his grandmother, Mrs. Emmons, at her rooms at her home here. Mrs. Emmons and Karl will return to Portland about the 20th of the month, as Karl will attend school to finish his last year of high school course. If everything is favorable he then hopes to go to West Point for further training.

Mrs. Mary A. Dunn Allen died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Wm. Pratt, Saturday night, Sept. 2. Mrs. Allen was born in Sumner, Feb. 4, 1831. She married Wilshire Allen, and to them were born five children, Quincy, Clara, Susan, Gertrude and Edward Allen. Only one, Quincy Allen of Paris, survives. She also leaves four grandchildren. The past six years she has lived mostly with her granddaughters, Mrs. Will Pratt, Jr., of Portland, and Mrs. Will Pratt of West Paris, with whom she has received devoted care. Mrs. Allen was a sufferer from heart trouble, gradually declining each day until her death. She was kind, loving and devoted to her family and friends, and held in high esteem by all who knew her. The funeral was held at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Will Pratt, of Pioneer street, Tuesday, Rev. D. A. Ball officiating. There were many beautiful flowers. The interment was in the family lot in the Forbes neighborhood.

Mrs. F. S. Briggs of Portland is spending the week with her mother, Mrs. Sara C. Curtis. Mrs. Curtis returned Saturday from Gorham, N. H., where she had been visiting the family of Wallace Mason for the past three weeks.

Rev. D. A. Ball and a party of Boy Scouts were camping last week at South Pond, Locke's Mills. Theophilus Beaulieu died at the Central Maine General Hospital, Wednesday forenoon from an operation for goiter. Theo. boarded quite a good deal with Mrs. W. W. Dunham, after the death of her husband and other members of her family, for company for her, and as his request she went to Lewiston to be near him at the time of his operation. He seemed very comfortable after the operation, and passed is an important man in the community. He has many things to look after, and watches the time for the arrival and departure of the mails very carefully. If he didn't follow the regular schedule, things would be in a pretty fix. But he knows the value of regularity and takes good care to get the mails off on time. In matters of health the postmaster's example is a good one to follow. Keep your habits regular, and when the stomach, liver or bowels need help, be sure to take the right remedy in time. Neglect to do this makes matters worse and harder to remedy. Many postmasters in New England will tell you that "L. F. Atwood's Medicine" is a fine remedy to keep the system in order. It is a great regulator, acting promptly in cases of indigestion, sick headache and constipation.

Your Postmaster

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE

Bethel People Should Act in Time

If you suffer from backache; If you have headache, dizzy spells; If the kidney secretions are irregular; Don't delay—likely your kidneys are sick.

Bethel people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's a Bethel woman's experience: Mrs. Julia Coburn, Mechanic St., Bethel, says: "I had a dull, heavy ache through the small of my back, which came on by spells. I noticed my sight often blurred and at times, I was dizzy. Doan's Kidney Pills proved fine for me, as I soon had relief from the backaches and felt much better. I always keep them on hand, procured from Besserman's Drug Store, and use them now as needed. I am always benefited."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Coburn had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

away quietly and unexpectedly. Theo came here from Canada and worked at the Grand Trunk station, also in the Paris Manufacturing Co. At different times he had been here nearly four years in all. Full of cheer and kind hearted, he made many friends among the younger set. Money for flowers was given the brother Wednesday evening as he accompanied the remains home to Canada.

Miss Beatrice Smith is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Willis, at Mechanic Falls.

The families of W. H. Emery, G. L. Emery and Almon K. Emery attended a reunion of the Emery family at the home of Anna Emery, Stearns Hill, Sunday of last week.

STILL PLENTY OF HORSE-DRAWN VEHICLES.

A great many people have gained the impression, because of the coming of the automobile, that the commercial truck, and the farm tractor, that the horse is doomed to extinction. Superficial observation and thinking may lead to such a conclusion, but a review of the progress of former inventions which seemed at the time equally calamitous to horseless will not permit us to think that any mechanical contrivance whatsoever will do away with the horse.

The horse has been man's co-worker toward civilization ever since Noah grasped the halter of his horse and mare and led them down the gang plank to dry land. When man has at last achieved the destiny toward which civilization is leading him, he will still find the horse at his side, perhaps, no more a drudge and a slave, but a companion for the pleasant rides and drives of his leisure hours.

It is well to remember, when predicting the elimination of the horse by the motor vehicle that there have been other occasions when the horse was apparently doomed to extinction through the introduction of mechanical means of transportation.

The railroad, from the viewpoint of the old time freight and hack driver, was a calamitous invention from which the horse could never recover. Rallying nobly from this terrible blow there are now more horses utilized in hauling materials to and from railway stations than were before devoted to traffic on the turnpikes.

The bicycle again wiped the horse out of the future consideration of many people, regardless of the demonstrable fact that nine out of ten of those who purchased wheels never had owned a horse and never would own one.

Then came the automobile. That sealed the fate of the horse for all time; but strange to say the horse has not only remained with us on better terms than ever, but he is about to come back in glorified form as an aristocrat.

PERSONAL DISTINCTION ATTACHES TO GOOD HORSES.

Automobiles will probably never be less numerous. The feature of fashion may pass for the simple reason that they have become common. Such was the fate of the bicycle. Already the very rich who are able to employ veterinarians, trainers and grooms are turning their attention to the saddle horse, and gain a personal distinction that can never come from lounging luxuriously in the latest automobile.

SAFEGUARD YOUR CHILD.

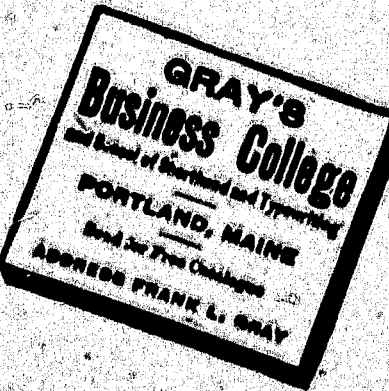

If your child is pale, dull, at times flushed, irritable and fretful you should attend to this condition at once as the chances are your little one is suffering from worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer is what you should get. This well known remedy in lozenges form is pleasant to take and expels the worms at once, the cause of your child's suffering. Only 25c. at all druggists.

Later will come back the coach with its matched teams of two, four and six horses, allowing the owners the privilege of constituting a class that cannot be imitated by "cheap makes," that will never be made the object of ridicule as "out of date models."

There is something about the coach and four or coach and six, with liveried driver and grooms, and possibly with outriders that has that tang of royalty so dear to the hearts of many radical republicans and humble democrats. The idea has struck the East and it will travel West. Fashion must find something new even if the customs of several years ago must be revived in order to secure the innovation.

The boys who are ignorant of the things he hires others to do will not long remain a boys.

Size up the little things of life and in time you will be able to take advantage of the big ones.

POEMS. WORTH READING

THE PRINCE OF PEACE.

Minnie Leona Upton.

Back in the shadow centuries the prophet voiced his message
Of such an age as never yet earth's harried hearts had known;
The generations, one by one, rehearsed his mystic message,
And prayed and passed. And still the Prince came not into His own.

And still earth's restless nations raged and warred against each other,
And might was right, and faith a jest, and cruel craft was king;
And he was worthiest to be praised who hardest smote his brother,
Till all the world 'neath one stern rule lay dumb, a conquered thing!

Lol through the vibrant air, that long with sounds of strife had quivered,
Breathed forth a strain more sweet than mortal ears had ever known;
Exultantly the heavenly host their wondrous theme delivered—
The long-foretold, the Prince of Peace, had come unto His own!

Ah! Then no more the clang of war, the anguish of the wounded!
No more a brother's hate struck down a brother as a foe.
Peace filled all hearts; the praise of peace through all the lands resounded;
War seemed a far-off, hideous dream!

Ah, God, that this were so! For still the greedy, restless nations,
If but another stir, fling forth their arms o'er land and sea,
Or sit and watch with furtive hate, or hall with acclamations
Some bloody, fearful "victory!"
These are the things that bel!

These and the passionate throes of earth's down-trodden ones, awaking;
These and the cold and crushing greed that vain would hold them down,
The while a chill foreboding gets the hearts of kings a-quaking,
And less for envy than all others, he who wears a crown.

These are the things that be. Yet still Thy followers stand unflinching;
We know in whom we have believed. Almighty Prince of Peace,
Thou holdest all things in Thy hand. Shall we, with doubt and faltering, Loosen our hold on Thee, who mak'st all fear and doubt to cease?

We see but such a tiny arc of the perfect round as aught of the perfect;
A fleeting century seems to us as it would never end;
Thou seest all, and workest through the ages vast, eternally,
Grant us, dear Prince, that with Thy work our little work may blend!

DEULAH LAND.
We're getting on in years, Jane, we two who started out
So bravely on life's journey, when the world was lilting and gay;
I can hardly tell, my darling, how the thing has come about,
But I find myself beginning to live in yesterday.

There's a bald spot on my head, Jane, and the frost is sitting down
While as drifting snow of winter on the fringe above my brow,
And your bonny locks are silver, that were once a golden brown,
Yet you never were so queenly, Jane, so beautiful as now.

But, "Hurry up, old lady!" the car conductor says—
"Step lively, please, old gentleman!"—and young folks offer seats,
And we discover in ourselves, when treated in this way,
A cold and haughty anger, or quick resentful heat.

Then, we've learned to love a corner by the chimney's blaze at night;
We are not always ready for the alighting of the ice,
That used to call us often forth, our faces smiling bright,
When mirth and frolic made for youth the flavor and the spice.

And we've caught the trick of looking with a half respectful awe
At the judges and the doctors whom we used to know in kilts;
And we blush at the admonition, but our youngest's word is law—
She has but to nod her meaning, and our own opinion wails.

Then the small grandchildren rule us; pray do not deny it, Jane;
We would quell them with indulgence if they lived beneath our roof.
When the question is of saying no, the little ones to trail,

Blue Ribbon Flour

Don't waste time with ordinary flour when your grocer can give you William Tell, milled from Ohio Red Winter Wheat. Order a sack today and do some blue ribbon baking. You can win domestic science prizes with the good things baked from William Tell, the flour that goes farther.

We, once so sternly resolute, just weakly stand aloof.

Yes, we're getting on in years, Jane, but I like it very well.
This broad and pleasant upland to which our steps have climbed;
This a restful Beulah country where delightful people dwell,
And the hour of our arrival has been very sweetly timed.

Here we taste the fruits we planted in the morning's bustling haste;
Here we sit awhile at leisure, and make friends with young and old;
Here we read and talk and ponder, by no flood of worry chased,
And behind us lies the dusty road, before us evening's gold.

THERE ISN'T ANY ONE FOR ME TO PLAY WITH ANY MORE.
(The Last Words of Mark Twain.)
The glow is fading from the western sky,
And one by one my comrades, as of yore,
Have given up their play and said goodbye;
There isn't any one for me to play with any more.

Don't cry, dear heart! for I am worn and old;
No longer have I largess in my store;
E'en love's best gifts to me I could not hold;
There isn't any one for me to play with any more.

I miss the tender hand-clasp of old friends—
The kisses of the loved ones gone before;
'Tis lonely, when the heart first comprehends,
There isn't any one for me to play with any more.

I need these loving hearts, so fond and true;
I want them in my arm, as heretofore;
When they are reached, I shall no longer feel,
There isn't any one for me to play with any more.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

position of everybody in the National Capital is to accommodate the Philippine Islands by giving them self-government—and turn them loose. However, the "fly in the ointment," is that every American official who goes to the Philippines and makes a study of conditions, agrees that the natives are incapable of regulating their own public affairs.

URGING MEDIATION.

Miss Rebecca Shelly of Michigan, who has established herself as a big force in peace work, is responsible for the organization of the American Neutral Conference Committee, with a membership of 100. Among the members are David Starr Jordan, Miss Jane Adams, John Hays Hammond, Rabbi Stephen Wise, D. W. Huebsch, Governor Capper of Kansas, and others. A large delegation of the committee was received by President Wilson a few days ago, and discussed with him the proposition of an official conference of the neutral nations. It is understood that Mr. Wilson is not giving much encouragement to suggestions that the United States act as peacemaker in the European War.

SALTING THE LEAD MINES.

The big harvest of the "boiler plate" manufacturers is at hand, and the metropolitan newspaper men who have been called to the posts of directing publicity for the national political committees are content in the hallucination that they are saving their candidates and their country through the process of shipping free stereotype plate to newspapers throughout the country. Perhaps they are right in the belief that this is the way to educate the public. Anyhow it is a good thing for the big concerns who furnish the lead.

CROCKER LAND AND PEARLY.

It has been pretty well established that Crocker Land, which Admiral Peary claimed to have discovered when he was on his way to the North Pole, does not exist. An official report is being made to the United States Government by Ensign Green. Admiral Peary explains in a logical way how he may be mistaken. However, his enemies have seized upon the circumstance as an attempt to discredit his record as the discoverer of the pole.

ROOT SUSTAINS REPUTATION.

As former Senator Root grows older he comes to be considered more and more a sage among Americans, who listen with profound attention to the words of wisdom he utters. Mr. Root has a reputation that is hard to live up to. A year ago he told Congress that there were too many laws, and backed up his statement with figures, showing the number of acts that had been created. He illustrated the impossibility of any human being following the processes of law-making. He held it to be impossible for any person to "know the law." Mr. Root's most recent observation, is that there are too many lawyers. This is the belief that has often been expressed by others. Mr. Root also warns the lawyers about being over-technical.

These old truths, reasserted by the New Yorker, sometimes lead one to wonder where the remedy is coming from. Surely the lawyers, who are in the majority in law-making bodies, and in practically every other place of public trust, are not going to be overzealous in reforming their own conditions.

WHO PAYS THE TAXES.

There has been considerable jockeying back and forth in Congress in attempts to readjust the income tax. It has been brought out in the debate that 400,000 persons made individual returns to the treasury in the past year.

DISEASES OF THE LI

By G. E. Conkey.

In fowls, as in human beings, is one of the largest organs of the body and is likewise one of the most important. It prepares the blood and it assists in some of the necessary chemical changes.

Passing through the numerous vessels of the liver is a great volume of blood and this necessarily makes the organ particularly liable to various parasites. The minute vessels make a favorable lodging place for these parasites, where they multiply and begin their disease.

Among the more common liver diseases are cholera, bacillary, typhoid, black-head protozoa, and aspergillous fungus. These cause congestion, inflammation and death of the tissues.

The principal diseases of the liver are those of a parasitic nature. These are Congestion, Inflammation, Hepatitis, Atrophy—or wasting—Liver, Jaundice, and Fatty Liver. All of these we shall all of the head of liver troubles, and of the symptoms are practical and the method of treatment the various disorders is much.

SYMPTOMS.
The great difficulty in liver troubles of the liver is that the symptoms are slow to appear and leading, the result being that cases are frequently discovered to apply an effective remedy.

Usually the comb and wattles lack of color, gradually change dark red or purple; there is loss of appetite and the bird is sluggish. The skin takes on a hue, and this is also indicative of comb and wattles. The disease is usually attended by a watery discharge from the eyes, gradually changing to yellow cast.

A post mortem examination shows the liver to be greatly enlarged, though occasionally it may be smaller than normal. Sometimes the congested with blood, or mottled with blood, depending on the disease has taken.

CAUSE.
Over-feeding, especially on soft food, or too heavy portions of starch and fat elements, are largely responsible for liver trouble. Hens that are especially subject to liver trouble and careful feed be looked to largely as a preventive measure. Lack of exercise often a very important cause. Birds that are confined in cages, that do not have exercise are the most likely to be troubled by this nature.

ORIGIN OF

"PETRIFIED FOREST."

The "Petrified Forests" of Arizona, really a series of petrified forests, lies a short distance south of Adamana, on the line of the Santa Fe Railway. There are four "forests," included in a Government reservation called "Petrified

Forest National Monument," created by presidential proclamation in 1906.

The name "forest" is not strictly appropriate, for the petrified tree trunks are all prostrate and are broken into sections. The logs are the remains of giant trees that grew in Triassic time, the age of reptiles. The trees were of several kinds, but most of them were related to the Norfolk Island pine, now used for indoor decoration. Doubtless they grew in a near-by region and,

after falling, drifted down a watercourse and lodged in some eddy or a sand bank. Later they were buried by sand and clay, finally to a depth of several thousand feet. The conversion to stone was effected by gradual replacement of the woody material by silica in the form called chalcedony, deposited by underground water. A small amount of iron oxides deposited at the same time has given the brilliant and beautiful brown, yellow, and red tints which appear in much of the material.

Scene of the tree trunks are 6 feet in diameter and more than 100 feet in length. In the first forest there is a
